FORECAST

LONDON (AP) — The 89 passengers aboard a 747 just arrived from Los Angeles slid down escape chutes today when the jumbo jet's inner port engine burst into flames.

"We looked out the window and saw a giant flash and a huge sheet of flames," one passenger aboard the Pan American World Airways plane said.

The passengers, some in near-panic, took off shoes and wrapped themselves in blankets for the slide. Several suffered minor cuts and bruises. Two fainted.

Capt. Bob Marshall, the pilot, said he planned to restart the engine to snuff the fire but decided to open the escape hatches when some passengers grew excited.

"If the fire had occurred in flight I could have put it out by increasing the revolutions of the engine," he said.

The plane had been on the ground about two minutes.

The Federal Aviation Administration in the United States earlier this month praised the 747's safety record and said engine overheating was not a problem. That statement came after the National Transportation Safety Board said 747 engine fires had been caused by "near critical temperature conditions." It urged the FAA to act to prevent recurrences of incidents such as had occurred aboard 747s belonging to American Airlines and Air France.

Apartment Paint Job Can Cause a Person Some Grave Problems

By JOY STILLEY

New York (AP) — What causes sore muscles, headaches, a general feeling of malaise and a firm conviction that things will be even worse tomorrow — symptoms that appear regularly every three years?

It's not some dread tropical disease — it's a paint job on an apartment. And though it isn't an illness recognized by any medical authority, the recovery period is long and painful.

So is the preparation.

It's a two-day operation to transform our abode into a setting untouched by human fingerprints, and the logistics must be charted accordingly.

Since I can get more meals in a restaurant that way I always advocate doing the kitchen first, thus putting it out of commission for an extra day. A logical partner is the bathroom, and we throw in a couple of bedrooms for good measure. What we really should do is throw out the entire contents of those bedrooms.

Instead we empty all the closets, taking down shoe racks, tie holders and old empty boxes that might make it through one more Christmas, and remove pictures, lamps, mirrors and other impediments from the walls.

The clothes get draped gracefully across the dining room chairs and the rest of the stuff goes into boxes that optimistically seek a resting place under the table among sister and brother boxes filled with junk from the kitchen cabinets.

The table itself is covered with dishes, glasses, toasters, coffee pots, pans, blenders and everything else that needs a temporary home away from home. Leaning against the walls at various precarious angles are ironing board, drying rack, vacuum cleaner, window screens and any number of long-handled objects that are fugitives from the broom closet.

Then all the furniture must be arranged in intimate little groupings in the center of the rooms to be painted. My husband supplies the brawn for this enterprise. I supply the brains, deciding which piece looks best.

ter atop the bed — the dresser, the bookcase or the night table.

Once the first day's art work has been completed, all these things must be returned to their place of origin. Then the living room and the dining room and a few odd little alcoves and halls must be dismantled and the obstacle course through the house replotted.

We've pretty well solved the second-day problem this time though. Our daughter is away at college so we just stacked everything in her newly painted room, firmly close the door and hope one of her classmates will invite her home for Thanksgiving. That way we have until Christmas to get things straightened out.

The U.S. Embassy gave no other information on the visit Monday by the two consuls to Maj. Gen. Edward C.D. Scherer, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey, and Brig. Gen. Claude McQuarrie Jr. But it said the consuls expected to see them again today in Leninakan where their small plane landed six days ago just inside Soviet Armenia and some 1,200 miles south of Moscow.

The U.S. government said the violation of Soviet air space was "clearly accidental," due to bad weather, and asked for the speedy release of the four men and the plane. But a blast in Tass gave no indication that the Kremlin was preparing to let them go.

The Soviet news agency said the Foreign Ministry presented notes to the governments of the United States and Turkey strongly protesting the "unlawful intrusion" of Soviet territory. The notes said the intrusion was "not a chance violation of Soviet air space" but was a "direct result of the general military activity of the United States in areas adjoining the Soviet Union."

"In the last three years alone there were more than 10 unlawful violations of the Soviet Union's air space, and appropriate representations were made in connection with them to the American side," the note to Washington said.

also be drawn to the recent considerable increase in the activity of the U.S. Air Force and Navy in the area directly adjoining the southern borders of the Soviet Union."

The other note accused the Ankara government of allowing U.S. planes to operate from Turkish bases "for reconnaissance and other hostile actions directed against the Soviet Union and countries of the Middle East of the American U2 spy plane which was a rude violation of norms of international law and was condemned by the entire world public."

Let's Talk About The Issues

THE OLD AND POOR MUST NOT BE USED AS POLITICAL PAWNS

The people on welfare in Arkansas received a slight increase just before the election in their assistance checks. People who are blind, disabled or elderly are entitled to welfare increases when the funds become available. They shouldn't have to wait for someone's sense of political timing.

Dale Bumpers will work to provide the poor people of Arkansas adequate welfare payments for the essentials of life in an inflationary economy. He won't wait until election time to do it.

Swede Teaching in U.S. Gets Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The 1970 Nobel Prize in physics was awarded jointly today to a Frenchman and a Swede at the University of California's San Diego branch. But the Swede's wife refused to wake him up to tell him he was $40,000 richer.

"It's too early in the morning," the wife of Prof. Hannes Alfven told a newsman who telephoned their home in La Jolla at 3:35 a.m. PST. "It's too early—he's still asleep."

Mrs. Alfven hung up, then took the phone off the hook.

Prof. Alfven shared the prize with Louis Neel of Grenoble University.

The last Nobel award of the year, in chemistry, also was announced today and went to a native of Paris now living in Buenos Aires, Argentina, Prof. Luis F. Leloir, for his discovery of Fulton.

DeAnn Lilac Club Meets

The DeAnn Lilac Garden Club met Tuesday afternoon, October 20 in the home of Mrs. C.B. O'Steen with Mrs. DeVaughn Samuels, co-hostess. Safari Moja at Saenger October 28

For the sportsman who works all year for two weeks of fishing or hunting, "Safari Moja" opening Oct. 28 at the Saenger theatre will cause more unrest than a blocked punt at the Cowboy-Green Bay Packer game.

The whole-family adventure film is a documentation of one-man's hang-up for the out-of-doors. Wally Taber, photographer, producer, writer and many-talented sportsman already is somewhat of a living legend among sportsmen. When "Safari Moja" departs town, he will be the envy of every male who cherishes the feel of rod, rifle, bow or camera. With these tools-of-his-trade, he parlayed a newspaper assignment into a venturesome career 20 years ago.

Today, 13 books, 10 lecture films, a television series and uncounted trips around the world later, Taber moves into theatres across the country with his first full-screen, living-color 35mm theatrical — "Safari Moja."

"I wanted to give heart to the multitudes who similarly love the great out-of-doors," Taber advised.

He succeeded! For, not only is "Safari Moja" highly entertaining, thoroughly enjoyable and downright amazing, it will make more feet itch to shock the daily grind than anything since the profit motive was invented.

"Safari Moja" wraps six years of high adventure into one evening's entertainment guaranteed to cause viewers to reassess goals, realign rutts, even rebel against the establishment. Certainly, it will make many want to go hunting and fishing more often.

Everything from a trek up the fabled Alaskan highway to a leopard hunt in Mozambique far below the Equator is served up in tantalizing color and comment. Float trips down uncharted rivers, pack trips into wilderness mountains, bush flights above the Arctic Circle, hob-nobbing with primitive natives...it's all there in a 2-hour blaze of color that seems to end far too soon.

Not only is the film rated for whole-family attendance, it is whole-family in the making. Taber's lovely wife, Mable, rubs elbows with instant death on many an occasion. Her episode with a massive Cape buffalo leads one to suspect she might have been the Patay set up to generate goosebumps on gullible flesh. She does!

No question, if you enjoy high adventure either near at home or far away, "Safari Moja" is your bag! The line to join Taber on his next adventure forms on the right!

sugar nucleotides and their role in the biosynthesis of carbohydrates.

Neel was eating lunch in a restaurant in Besancon in eastern France when told of the award. He observed: "There are very few Nobel prizes but many good physicists. I am above all happy for this prize for the French school of magnetism, which is highly regarded."

Alfven was honored for "fundamental work and discoveries in magneto hydrodynamics with fruitful application in different parts of plasma physics," the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences announced.

Neel was cited for "fundamental work and discoveries concerning antiferro magnetism and ferri magnetism which have led to important applications in solid state physics."

Alfven, 62, works alternately in the United States and at the Royal Advanced Technical School in Stockholm. He once threatened to emigrate to America unless the Swedish government gave him a professorship with adequate funds for his research in plasma physics. The government complied.

Neel, 66, is a native of Lyon and a graduate of the Ecole Normale Supérieure in Paris. He worked at the University of Strasbourg's Weiss Laboratory for research in magnetism from 1932 until 1945, when he went to Grenoble. There he is director of the National Advance School of Electrotechnics, Hydraulics, Radioelectronics and Applied Mathematics.

Glass Bottles Used to Pave City Street

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — More than a million used glass bottles and jars collected by Southern Californians have gone into the nation's first city street of asphalt, a new paving material.

The 600-foot-long street, in an industrial area, is a result of federally sponsored research begun three years ago at the University of Missouri.

The problem: do something useful with waste glass and thus reduce America's mammoth trash problem.

One solution: blend 12 parts broken glass, six parts stone dust, one part asphalt and a half part lime, producing the new surfacing for roads.

Researchers said glasphalt passed all significant tests before being tried here, although they will watch the street carefully to make certain jagged edges do not result which could puncture tires.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — In the course of changing channels and being chopped to a half hour over the summer, something has happened to "The Red Skelton Show," and the something isn't good.

The program now leads off NBC's Monday night schedule. Instead of being a variety hour with Skelton's unique brand of comedy as the principal ingredient, it is now practically all Skelton. That should be great, for Red is a superb entertainer, but he is being given some dreadful material.

This week's outing started with Skelton using his fine pantomime skills in a silly Jekyll and Hyde solo consisting mostly of making funny faces. A dreadful sketch followed, with guest star Van Johnson opening by reading his off-camera cue cards. The comedy consisted entirely of a fat lady breaking furniture every time she sat down. Then there was a silent spot featuring monsters in some sort of Halloween context.

Perhaps the level of the show has dropped because of some theory that Skelton, in an earlier time period, has picked up a children's audience. Maybe, the well of inspiration has run dry. At any rate, the new Red Skelton show is nothing like the old one. On CBS, Red's program rarely was out of Nielsen's top 10; this season it has dropped to the middle of a list of 80 shows. It should not be forgotten, however, that the comedian has picked up some tough competition — "Gunsmoke."

The Skelton show was not alone in celebrating Halloween Monday night: "Laugh-In" devoted most of its hour to jokes, gags, and blackouts involving castles, ghosts, vampires and skeletons.

The program has seemed to lack sparkle this season, but the Monday night program appeared to be back in its break-neck form with some funny gags. There were, unhappily, a lot of rather gruesome and

I didn't mean to eavesdrop when you're sitting at the next cafeteria table, you obviously can't close your ears. These two high school girls were both miserable about their love lives. One said "life would be meaningless" without her boy friend, but she was worried because now she'd given in to him, she wasn't sure of him. The other was involved with a married man who one night swore he loved HER and the next said he loved his wife best.

All of a sudden it hit me — how pathetic girls are who center their lives around men. Their whole reason for being is to be madly in love. They don't care about school or career or helping others or anything but that one guy they hope will marry them, but who usually ends up treating them like dirt.

Don't get me wrong. Guys are important to me. In fact, I think men are just about the smartest and greatest things God put on this earth — second only to women, (ha, ha) I like 'em both as friends and potential husbands, but somehow I feel that one single purpose is awfully few for life. Hanging Out the College Grid Wash

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the college football wash:

Win Headley, Wake Forest's defensive tackle, was presented Sunday with the annual Brian Piccolo Award, named after the late Wake Forest and Chicago Bears running back who died of cancer this year. It will go annually to the Wake Forest player who best typifies the play of Piccolo in the annual game against North Carolina.

Playing most of the way with a painfully bruised right instep, Headley made nine unassisted tackles, including five the last two times Carolina had the ball while trying to erase a 14-13 deficit, helped out on six others and generally cleared the way for linebacker Ed Stets to get in on 27 stops. After the game, Headley had to be helped into the shower by teammates.

Last week, Rick Lewis, a defensive back for Georgia Tech, asked Coach Bud Carson, "How come the sports writers always interview the same guys?" Lewis wasn't one of them.

The 190-pound junior didn't lack for attention Saturday after he picked a fumble by Tulane's punter out of the air with 12 minutes left and raced 30 yards to snap a scoreless tie. Only 27 seconds later, he intercepted a pass and went 56 yards for another touchdown. A few minutes after he picked off another pass and returned it 22 yards to set up Tech's third score in a 20-6 victory.

ABC-TV's Wild Card games—four regional contests on Nov. 14 and one national game any time—haven't been made public yet ... but you can make some pretty good guesses.

For the Nov. 14 regionals, try Ohio State-Purdue, Georgia-Auburn and Utah-Arizona State, with one more to come. Best bet for the national Wild Card is Notre Dame-Southern Cal on Nov. 28 as the nightcap of a double-header, with Army-Navy kicking it off.

ABC has made a change in this Saturday's 3-TV schedule: The Nebraska-Colorado telecast has been extended into parts of the Midwest and a larger area of the Northeast, pre-empting Southern Cal-California, which will be seen only on the West Coast and part of Nevada.

It looked as though a monumental upset might be in the making when Hampton Institute, which had lost 17 straight games, took a 2-0 lead over unbeaten Virginia State. Final score: Virginia State 85, Hampton 2.

Ten different players scored the touchdowns and three quarterbacks threw scoring passes. Coach Walt Lovett used every offensive back available and, late in the game, was spotted at the end of the bench not even watching the action. "I don't like to be involved in anything like this," he said.

Reaction on the Quarry, Clay Fight

By KEN RAPPORPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier wants a crack at Muhammad Ali.

"We're ready to fight him as soon as we can," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, after Ali demolished Jerry Quarry in Atlanta Monday night.

Frazier, the heavyweight champion, is at his East Stroudsburg, Pa., retreat training for a Nov. 18 meeting with Mac Foster in Detroit.

"We're ready to fight him as soon as we can get rid of Foster," said Durham, "and as soon as Clay can get ready. I sure hope he doesn't want to fight again until he fights us."

Durham, in a telephone interview from East Stroudsburg, said the champ was informed of Monday night's third-round technical knockout.

Reaction?

"He just went to sleep," said Durham, "Joe is more concerned about Foster now than he is about Muhammad Ali. Joe said he licked Quarry already and he's fighting Foster next. He says, 'one thing at a time.'"

Durham said he watched the fight on closed circuit television in Allentown, Pa., and was highly dissatisfied with Quarry's performance.

"I thought he'd be fighting a much stronger fight," said Durham, "I figured Clay would cut him—but I didn't think it would happen that quick. I don't think Quarry fought too smart a fight."

Durham insisted Frazier would handle Ali differently.

"We're going after him, we won't let him run around the ring," said Durham, "We'll make him run."

Durham was asked about the remark in the ring Monday night by Ali, the former champion, of wanting "to settle the title" with Frazier.

"There's no settling any title," said Durham. "We are the heavyweight champions of the world. It's our title."

NCAA Seeking to Keep Down Spiraling Costs

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A National Collegiate Athletic Association committee looking for ways to help college athletic departments halt spiraling costs has a revolutionary suggestion — limit the number of scholarships and base the amount of the scholarship on need.

The Financial Aid Committee of the NCAA presented its suggestion Monday to the powerful 18-man governing Council of the NCAA.

The Council scheduled a news conference at noon to announce its decision on whether to present the committee's plan to the next convention of the NCAA for discussion.

An informal poll of several council members Monday night found most of them receptive to the idea.

The proposal would limit the number of scholarships any NCAA member could give to 30 in football and six in basketball. The other half of the two-prong plan would set up a formula under which a school could give a student only that financial help he needed.

The need would be based on the federal income tax return of the student's parents. Once it was determined how much the family could afford to pay each year, the family would be expected to pay that amount no matter which school was chosen, with the selected school making up the difference in the form of an athletic scholarship.

Conferences currently limit the number of scholarships their members can grant but the limit varies widely among conferences. Some independent schools reportedly give as many as 50 football scholarships annually.

Athletic scholarships normally pay room, board, books and tuition, plus a small monthly allowance for such incidentals as laundry.

Another suggestion presented mittee would require each member school to issue its scholarship invitations the same day and allow a one-week period for the recipient to choose which school he would attend.

Once that decision was made the athlete would be ineligible to play for another school.

The already strained Green Bay Packers defense has suffered another setback with the loss—apparently for the rest of the season—of tackle Rich Moore.

The Denver Broncos' defensive unit was also depleted in last Sunday's National Football League action as cornerback Booker Edgerson received knee ligament injuries requiring surgery and sidelining the nine-year pro for the rest of the year.

Moore, a 6-foot-6, 280-pound former Villanova star, was one of three Packers hurt in Green Bay's 30-17 triumph over Philadelphia. He suffered a torn Achilles tendon. Running back Travis Williams suffered a severely sprained ankle and is a questionable starter next Sunday against San Francisco. Center Ken Bowman, out with a dislocated shoulder, probably will be replaced by Malcolm Walker, Coach Phil Bengtson said.

Baltimore running back Tom Matte, who had been out of action since the Colts' first game of the season with an injured left knee, returned to action last Sunday against Houston and promptly reinjured it.

Matte is expected to be out another four to six weeks.

New York's injury-riddled Jets acquired guard Dave Middendorf from Cincinnati, giving the Bengals an undisclosed draft choice.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Gabelich, who broke the world land speed record last Friday, has his sights on the water speed standard.

Ex-Champ Is Excited About Frazier Fight

DENVER (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis appeared to be more excited about a possible future heavyweight match between Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier than in the quick Ali finish of Jerry Quarry Monday night.

Louis, co-promoter of a closed circuit television showing of the fight in Denver, said, Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, looked good in his first fight in 3½ years, "but is not ready to meet Frazier."

Louis said, Ali and Frazier "are the only two good heavyweights around these days," although George Foreman should be on par in another two years.

A Frazier-Ali fight, Louis said, would pair two different fighters. He said Ali, although not as fast as he used to be, has developed a much harder punch, but would have to contend with Frazier "making you fight his fight on the ropes or in the corners."

Louis shied away from picking a winner in an Ali-Frazier fight, but did say that "when he gets into top shape Clay will be champion for many years."

As for the Quarry fight, Louis said he felt it should have been allowed to continue a little longer, although he didn't think Quarry "would have lasted more than a couple of rounds had the fight continued."

Royal Plays Some Boys Both Ways

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP) — In an age of football specialists, Texas coach Darrell Royal says he has been forced to resort to old-fashioned two-way players to keep the best men on the field.

The Longhorns, No. 2 college football team in the nation, have won five straight games this year, extending their winning streak to 25, but Royal has maintained all season his squad has no depth.

Charles "Cotton" Speyrer, the team's top pass receiver, broke his arm Oct. 17 against Oklahoma, and a chain reaction started.

Defensive halfback Danny Lester moved to Speyrer's split end position but continued to work out in the secondary. Sub quarterback Gary Keithley, also Texas' punter, practiced at defensive halfback for insurance if Mike Bayer, a sub for Lester, or either of the other two defensive backs should get hurt.

Last Saturday sophomore linebacker Randy Braband fractured his foot against Rice, and sub David Richardson has moved up to the first team. But No. 1 tight end Tommy Woodard has started learning the linebacker's job to protect against a talent dropoff there. That means three players—Lester, Keithley and Woodard—are working on both offense and defense.

Royal told a news conference Monday he did not expect sympathy from the other Southwest Conference teams, and he said even Longhorn fans "just yawn" when he moans about injuries.

"They just think we'll reach in the well and haul another one out," Royal said. "But I'm really concerned... You can't lose people like Speyrer and Braband... We can't continue to do this."

Royal said Keithley, who intercepted a pass against Rice, "has got the tools to be a good outstanding defensive secondary man. He's just got the moves a guy needs..."

He said Woodard's repaired knee is "almost completely healed," and tight end Deryl Comer's injured knee "is coming around." Knocking on the wooden arm of his chair for good luck, Royal said he did not think Comer's knee swelled after the Rice game—for the first time this season.

Royal also said halfback Jim Bertelsen apparently has shaken off a pulled muscle which has held him back this season. "Bertelsen's his old self again...he's arrived."

Royal said of fullback Steve Worster, who rambled for 170 yards against Rice, "his performance was exceptional, as it usually is."

Texas will try to extend its 25-game winning streak Saturday against SMU, and Royal said the Mustangs are "dangerous." He mentioned quarterback

Chuck Hixson, the all-time NCAA leading passer, and said the SMU defense is "tough to score against, tough to move the ball against. They've always been troublesome for us."

Thai Officials Stop Meet to Watch Fight

By MIKE MCCLOY

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A cold desert wind drew a curtain of dust over the 40th World Shooting Championships Monday night, after final award ceremonies were completed with the aid of automobile headlights.

Free-rifle gold medalist Margaret Murdock of Topeka, Kan., expressed the feelings of most American team members when she said, "There was really no 'best' feature of the matches. There were many inadequacies."

John Foster, gold medal winner in the army rifle match, cited an "anti-American attitude" on the part of International Shooting Union jurors, but added, "I can't prove it."

The American team, he said, was subject to "a lot of negative jury opinions, starting the first day with a hassle over shooting coats."

The alleged "negative" treatment continued through the ninth and final day of competition when the United States and Russian teams tied with 2223 out of 2400 for first in army rifle, and the Soviet shooters won the gold medal on a decision of ISU officials.

"The Russians should be given a gold medal for winning protests," said William McMillan of Turtle Creek, Pa., bronze medal winner in the standard pistol match which, by the way, was finally decided Monday, after four days of haggling.

But it was not all won in jury meetings, although they resulted in a few additional points for the Soviets here and there, and a medal or two. The Russians performed powerfully on the line in a meet which produced 20 medal-winning countries.

Russia had 19 gold, 16 silver and 9 bronze; followed by the United States with 12, 14 and 9.

In the final day's competition, Vladimir Agishev won the silver medal in the army rifle and his teammate, Valentin Kornev, won the bronze. Poland took the team bronze medal.

Rafael Carpio won Mexico's only gold medal in center fire pistol, followed by Finland's Seppo Niskinen and Lubomir Nacovsky of Czechoslovakia.

The Czechs won the team gold medal, leaving the silver for the United States and the bronze for Russia.

Nina Stolyarova of Russia won the gold in women's center fire, followed by Barbara Hile of the United States and Karin Fitzner of West Germany. The American women took the team gold medal, the Russians won the silver and West Germany captured the bronze.

Pistons Make Shambles of NBA Division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Detroit's runaway Pistons set a record for success while Cincinnati was snapping a string of futility.

The undefeated Pistons, making a shambles of the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division, battered Seattle 142-111 Monday night for their eighth successive victory. That exceeds the seven-win mark set when they were the Fort Wayne, Ind., Pistons in 1956 and equalled in Detroit in 1961.

In the only other NBA game, the Cincinnati Royals won their first game of the season after five setbacks, walloping Atlanta 126-107.

In the lone American Basketball Association game, the Virginia Squires remained unbeaten and in solid command in the East Division, belting the Memphis Pros 120-103.

The Pistons pulled three games ahead of idle Milwaukee in the NBA Midwest Division and dropped the SuperSonics, now 3-3, into a three-way tie with San Francisco and Los Angeles for supremacy in the Pacific Division.

With Dave Bing leading Detroit's attack with 35 points, the Pistons ran roughshod over Seattle, opened a 15-point bulge after one quarter and expanding the lead to 75-48 at the half.

Despite cooling off in the second half, they ended up with a brilliant 63.9 shooting percentage from the floor. Don Smith topped the Sonic scorers with 19.

"I needed the work and the longer it lasted, the easier it was to land my punches," said Ali, speaking in a low voice before a battery of newsmen. Lou Hudson paced Virginia cruised to its sixth victory—and consigned Memphis to its third defeat in four games—on the strength of George Carter's 26 points and 24 by Charlie Scott. Jimmy Jones, who tied Wendell Ladner for Memphis scoring honors with 18, became the seventh ABA player to pass the 5,000-point career mark.

In another development, the New York Nets of the ABA announced that superforward Rick Barry, who reinjured his right foot last Friday, will be sidelined for about five weeks with what physicians called a "fatigue fracture."

Boston Bruins Just Bunch off Good Skates

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Bruins are just a bunch of good skates ... and five of their players are cutting up the National Hockey League scoring race.

The local Soil Conservation Service recently designed and supervised the construction of a sewage lagoon for a 540 hog parlor on the Charles Gwinup farm in the Patmos area.

The lagoon was built with the assistance of an ASCS program designed to prevent pollution of streams, and is the first of this type to be constructed in the state under this program.

The design is a tank type pond

Bomb Goes Off in Suitcase in Wisconsin

WAUSAU, Wis. (AP) — A bomb exploded in a suitcase at a downtown bus depot Monday, injuring an employee and hurling fragments of a plate glass window into a street.

Terry Treador, 19, who was hospitalized in fair condition, was the only person in the depot. Police said he was standing less than 10 feet from the hallway in which the suitcase had been left earlier in the day.

The blast littered a waiting room and scattered glass in a parking lot.

Livestock can not have access to the water.

Other farmers are following the same pattern in this program. Weaver Quillen, Mack Cowart, and Wayne Attebury are building the same type lagoon, which has attracted several visitors from other counties who are interested in pollution control with this type structure.

These farmers are pollution-control minded. More people would look ahead with plans to keep our county clean.

Few Changes in Legislative Branch

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Constitution of 1970 proposes few major changes in the legislative branch of state government, but supporters feel the alterations that were made would create a more broadly representative, reasonably paid and publicly conducted General Assembly.

Provisions of the legislative section of the proposed constitution would:

- Require single-member legislative districts so that every legislator will represent about the same number of constituents.

- Permit the legislature to set the salaries for the following biennium of its own members, who now receive $3,600 a biennium.

- Allow the legislature to hold regular session each year, instead of every two years, if the General Assembly decides annual sessions are needed to conduct an ever increasing amount of state business.

- Increase the membership of the House from 100 to 102 and reduce the number of senators from 35 to 34.

- Permit the legislature by petition of three-fifths of the members of each house to call itself into special session without waiting for the governor.

- Prohibit secret meetings of any official legislative committee of either house.

The proposal to break up multimember legislative districts and require single-member districts had wide support at the Constitutional Convention, which finished its work earlier this year.

Including among the supporters were the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, which believes single-member districts will cut down the power of urban areas and give rural areas greater voice in the legislature, and Negroes. Negro groups see the single-member district concept as a chance to elect blacks to the legislature in some areas.

The proposed new document would move the starting date of regular legislative sessions in years after a government is elected from January to March to give a new governor more time to prepare his legislative program.

The document also would give local governments the authority to pass laws locally to handle their problems, subject to restrictions that the legislature might impose. This proposal would free the legislature of the task of taking care of such problems as setting the hours and pay of county and city workers that annually clutter the legislative sessions.

The proposed constitution would require a three-fifths vote of both houses to levy a tax or increase an existing tax.

Currently, all taxes such as the income tax that were in existence in 1934 may be increased only by a three-fourths vote of both houses. Other taxes, including the sales tax, may be increased by a simple majority.

Constitutional Convention delegates felt that by making uniform the vote required to enact any tax the legislature would not favor one tax over another because it might be easier to pass.

The proposed constitution would require a three-fifths vote of each house of the General Assembly rather than the current simple majority to override a veto by the governor.

American Education Week Oct. 25-31

Millions of parents and other citizens interested in the schools are expected to make their own "national assessment of education" during the annual observance of American Education Week, October 25-31. The theme is "Shape Schools for the '70's."

The urgent need to change and improve the schools in a rapidly changing and increasing complex society is being emphasized by the Education Week sponsors—the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Office of Education.

Leslie Huddleston Post 12 and its Auxiliary join these other sponsors in the observance of American Education Week and are appealing to all interested persons to consider the achievements, pressing needs and prevailing problems of the schools, "to take time to re-examine goals of the school systems as they affect the student specifically and, more generally, the social, political and economic life of the nation."

President Nixon, in an Education Week proclamation stressed the need for change and improvement in adapting the schools for the new decade. "If we are really going to shape the schools for the '70's, then we must be ready to reshape them with greater imagination, greater boldness and greater energy than we have ever applied before."

School visitation has been a basic activity since Education Week was started by the N.E.A. and the American Legion in 1921.

Mrs. Lucy Mae Williams, chairman of the Education and Scholarship Program of Hope Unit 12, states that in observance of American Education Week several copies of the booklet, "Need a Lift," will be made available to the Hope High School and the public library.

"Need a Lift" is a handbook developed by the American Legion as a guide to help students and parents in preparation of plans for education beyond high school graduation. It contains information about more than $3,000,000,000 in scholarship loans and part-time jobs to help students further their education after finishing high school. Also available is progress report on public education in the United States of America 1968-69, published by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Denies Slaying Five in Calif. Mansion

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — The bearded young man accused of murdering five persons at a luxurious hilltop mansion denies doing it, public defender James Jackson says.

Jackson, court-appointed to defend John Linley Frazier, said at a news conference Monday his client has told him he did not kill the victims and didn't know them.

Frazier, 24, was arrested last Friday as he slept in a dilapidated cowshed where he lived—less than a half mile from the mansion where four days earlier five people were found shot dead and thrown into a swimming pool.

The victims were Dr. Victor Ohta, 45, his wife, Virginia, 43, their sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and his secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Jackson said Frazier's actions "are not like those of a normal person ... He does not understand the gas chamber. And he does not know right from wrong."

The attorney said Frazier's personality "changed radically" after an auto accident last May in which he suffered a head injury.

One person, described as a close friend, told a newsman that Frazier was "a fairly straight family-oriented sort of a guy" until about May, when he quit his job as an auto mechanic and "turned almost overnight into another wired-up hippie."

He separated from his wife of four years a short time later.

Jackson said he had no immediate plans to change Frazier's "not guilty" plea to a plea of insanity because he feels the evidence is all circumstantial.

But Jackson said David Marlow, former chief of the University of California psychology department on the Santa Cruz campus, had talked to Frazier four times and is expected to testify that Frazier is not mentally competent.

There Will Be No Debate, Says Governor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Monday that a proposed debate between the three gubernatorial candidates would not be held.

Rockefeller, speaking to about 700 persons at a rally in the El Dorado Municipal Auditorium, said the debate would not be held because Dale Bumpers, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, "had been unable to work it into his schedule."

Rockefeller had issued the debate challenge to Bumpers and Walter Carruth of Lexa, the American party nominee for governor.

Rockefeller said his aides had attempted to work out final arrangements with Bumpers several times but Bumpers was not cooperative.

The governor predicted that he would win election to a third term and urged the crowd to give him a majority of the votes so he would have greater strength to deal with the legislature.

He denied charges that he was seeking a third term so he could have a majority of the appointees on state boards and commissions.

Rockefeller said he did not want another term so he could control the state government, but wanted to be re-elected "so the people can control."

Earlier in the day, Rockefeller told a crowd of Southern State College students at Magnolia that National Guardsmen would be armed with live ammunition if they were called upon to quell campus disturbances.

In a remark aimed at Bumpers, the governor said, "Nobody knew much about him before the campaign, and frankly, I haven't been able to find out much about him yet."

During a couple of stops on his swing through South Arkansas, Rockefeller derisively likened Bumpers' radio programs to the reading of the comic strips on the radio by the late New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia in the 1940s.

He also chided Bumpers' use of his public relations man, DeLoss Walker, in the taped radio shows in which Bumpers answers questions asked by Walker.

"I am not asking anyone to come up here and give me leading questions," Rockefeller said.

He also challenged Bumpers' newspaper advertisements, particularly those suggesting Bumpers' interest in the elderly. Rockefeller noted that employees at a nursing home in which Bumpers has a half interest were paid 50 cents an hour. Rockefeller asked if anyone who did that could have compassion for people.

Rockefeller told students at Southern State that his wealth proved that he had the "know how to run something bigger than a nursing home that pays its employees 50 cents an hour."

The governor also stopped at Camden and Warren and urged voters in both towns to support the proposed new constitution.

"Anyone over 10 years old can realize there are problems in Arkansas, but what we want to know is how to solve them," Rockefeller said.

Kidnapping Could Spread Into U.S.

By RICHARD E. MEYER

Associated Press Writer

MONTRÉAL (AP) — The mayor of Montreal, who says he is marked for assassination, thinks that if political kidnapping is allowed to continue in Quebec Province, it will spread to the United States.

"If we were to let them continue kidnapping our diplomats and members of government," said Mayor Jean Drapeau in an interview, "you can rest assured that those who have illegal purposes in the United States would do it."

"Someone hearing about what has happened here will start doing it."

Asked whether he or his police know of any ties between the terrorists of the Quebec Liberation Front—the FLQ—and radical or terrorist groups in the United States or elsewhere, Drapeau said: "My opinion is that these groups are full of men who do a lot of traveling. And they don't travel to Rome to see the Pope."

As two bodyguards stood nearby, Drapeau said the FLQ has prepared a list of government figures and others it wants assassinated in an attempt at revolution. "My name is on top," said the mayor, who was re-elected in a landslide vote Sunday.

The FLQ kidnapped British Trade Commissioner James Cross on Oct. 5 and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte five days later. The terrorists murdered Laporte on Oct. 17 after the government refused to free 23 FLQ members serving prison terms or awaiting trial.

Cross' wife emerged from seclusion Monday night to broadcast a message to her husband and his kidnappers over a local French-language station. She said she was confident Cross is alive and well, and she pleaded with the kidnappers to release him without delay. She said her experience was "agonizing."

Oil Tanker Control in Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — The House of Commons gave approval in principle Monday to a bill giving the government sweeping powers to control oil tankers in Canadian waters. Transport Minister Don Jamieson conceded there was a general feeling the measure does not go far enough, but said he did not see how it could be made any stronger.

"We have gone further unilaterally in this particular area than any other country on the face of the earth," he said after five hours of debate. "What we have done is to stretch our jurisdiction to the absolute maximum."

The bill amending the Canada Shipping Act imposes pollution controls on all tankers entering Canadian fishing zones. This extends the government's jurisdiction beyond the limits of territorial waters but not nearly so far as the 100-mile limit set by legislation last spring for the Canadian Arctic.

Getting Out of U.S. Is Very Easy

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a fugitive seeking refuge abroad, getting out of the United States is "incredibly easy," say government officials.

If his political leaning is acceptable to the nation where he wants to go, passage is practically assured.

"All you've got to do is walk across the border, go to the Cuban embassy and say you want to go to Algeria," said one U.S. official who asked not to be identified.

In recent months, a number of fugitives from American justice have followed that or similar scenarios, among them Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and LSD advocate Dr. Timothy Leary.

Escape routes are available to radical fugitives through both Mexico and Canada, according to government sources. In most cases the next stop is Cuba; for some, like Cleaver, it is on to Algeria.

When the FBI issues a warrant for a fugitive, police in Canada and Mexico are notified. Cooperation by neighboring police is described as good.

Should Canadian or Mexican police pick up a fugitive from the United States, extradition is governed by a series of treaties.

Crossing from the United States to Canada or Mexico is perhaps the easiest step in a fugitive's journey, government sources say, because of hundreds of miles of borders guarded by only 1,600 Customs and Immigration officers.

For those on the radical left, the sources say, a sort of informal underground railroad exists. It is believed Cleaver and Leary used such a pipeline.

For fugitives whose political views might not mesh with those in Cuba or Algeria, the going gets a little rougher.

James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., obtained a false passport in Canada to get to England where he was caught.

Among fugitives believed to have sought refuge out of the country are four young men sought in last summer's fatal bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin.

QUESTION: I have been receiving disability insurance benefits for over three years. Will my benefit rate be higher when I become age 65 next month?

ANSWER: No, the benefit rate will remain the same. The amount of your benefit was determined by your average earnings as though you were age 65 on the date you became disabled.

Therefore, this is the highest amount possible on your record of earnings.

QUESTION: My youngest child is still receiving benefits as a student. However, my check was stopped when she became 18 years of age. Was this correct?

ANSWER: Yes, you were entitled to a benefit only for months that your daughter was under 18 and in your care. As a widow, you can again become eligible for benefits at age 60. If you should become totally disabled before that time, you should inquire about disabled widow's benefits which may begin as early as age 50.

QUESTION: My husband, who is 70 years old, recently had a stroke. Could his social security check be raised to help meet the additional costs for his care?

ANSWER: No, this would not increase his social security check. However, if your income is insufficient to meet his needs, he may be eligible for Old Age Assistance, which is administered by the State Department of Public Welfare.

QUESTION: If I become disabled, can my wife and two small children also receive financial help from social security?

ANSWER: Yes, the disability insurance program provides for payment of benefits to the wife and children as well as the disabled worker.

Only last year, Miss Andrews completed the church's required four-year study program for ordination. She has since taken an additional year of ministerial studies in counseling.

Lutherans to Accept Women Into Ministry

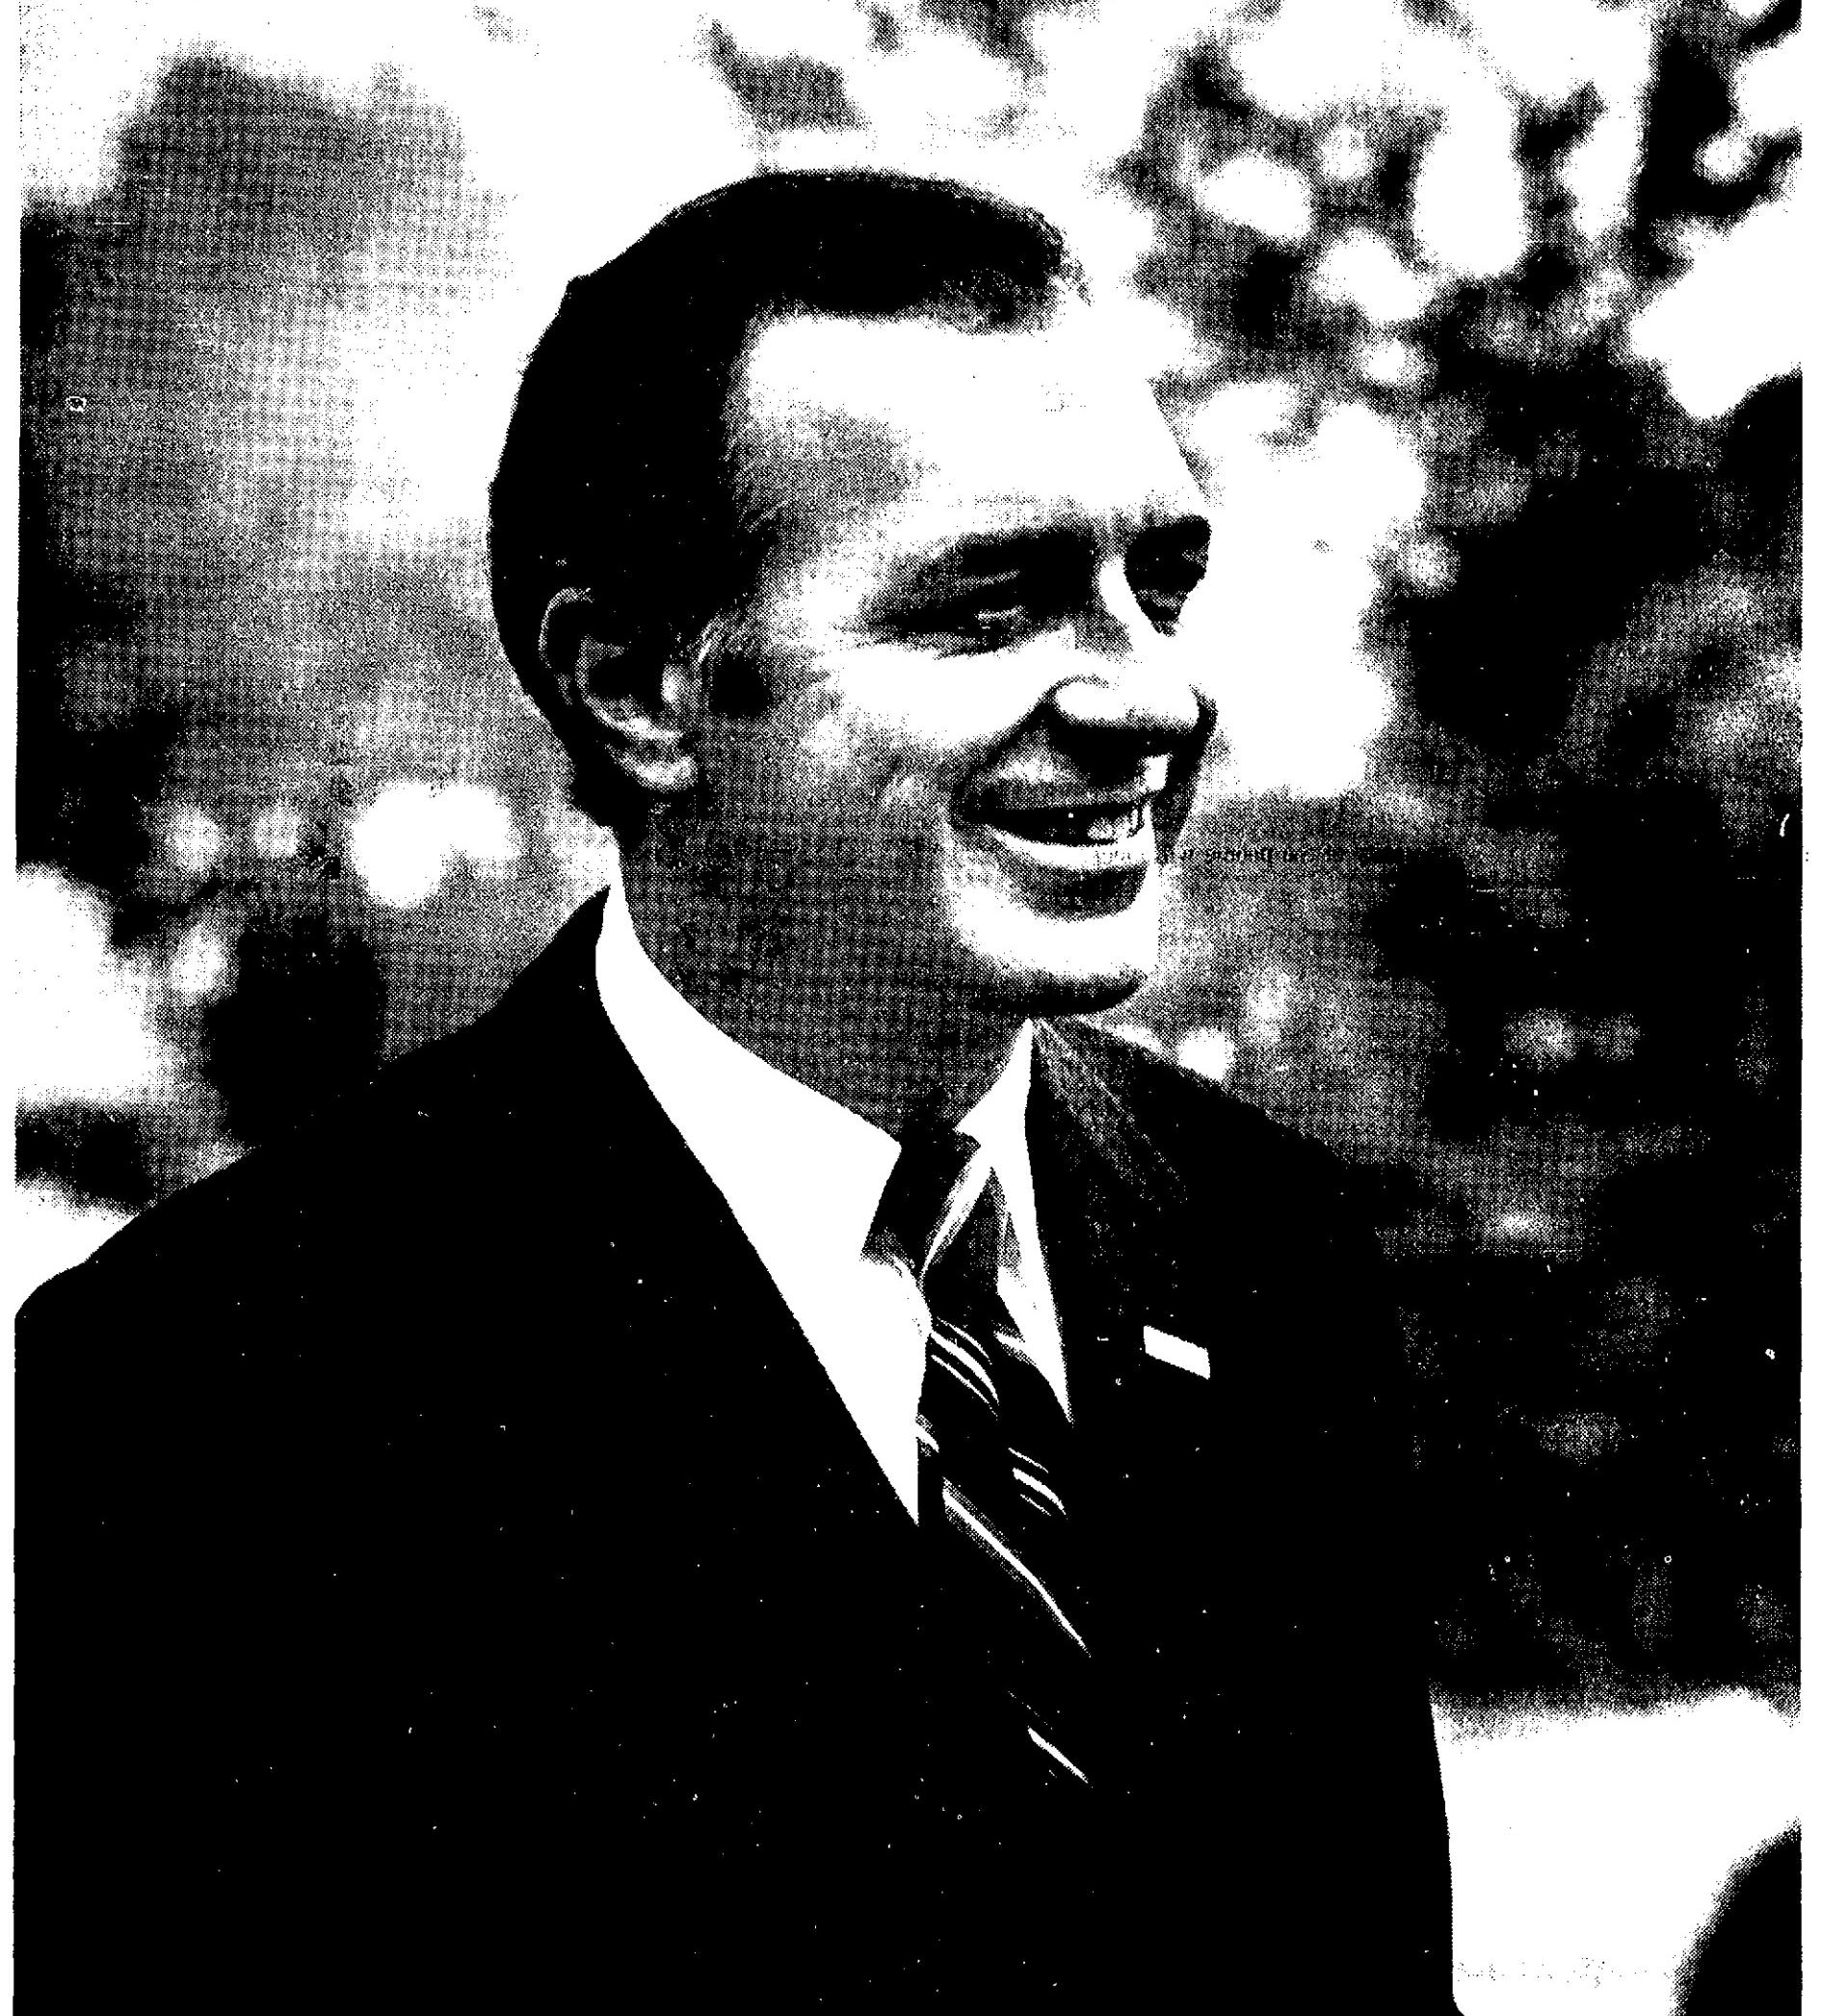

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A potential woman minister says the decision by the American Lutheran Church to admit women to the clergy is a step in the right direction—toward a broader recognition of women's roles in the church.

Miss Barbara Andrews, 36, of Minneapolis, says the change adopted here is a "sign of the times" in which women are demanding equal rights with men in all areas of life.

Delegates to the fifth general convention of the 2.5-million member denomination approved a measure allowing the ordination of women in a session Saturday.

One of two women in the denomination fully qualified to enter the ministry, Miss Andrews told an interviewer she felt the major opposition to ordaining women was "tradition—the fear of change."

Only last year, Miss Andrews completed the church's required four-year study program for ordination. She has since taken an additional year of ministerial studies in counseling.

The Lieutenant Governor presides over the Senate and assists the Governor. Basically, that's it.

But, I think I can do a lot more.

I know the legislator's side because I was there for 14 years. And I know the Governor's side. I may not always agree with either side, but I know I can work with both sides to get good programs for the people.

Many Vision Upturn in Housing

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mortgage bankers seem to agree the long awaited housing upturn has begun and will go on. Many of them predict high mortgage rates will continue, but some expect a slight easing soon.

Several experts interviewed here Monday at the Mortgage Bankers Association—MBA—convention also said they see the federal government playing an increasing role in housing.

Some claim this is taking away incentive from the private sector, but others argue that private enterprise alone is unable to meet the nation's housing needs.

"I don't feel there will be a big reduction in mortgage rates for a while to come," said Everett Mattson, senior vice president with the Houston-based Lomas & Nettleton Co.

Another banker, Claude E. Pope, executive vice president with Cameron Brown Co. of Raleigh, N.C., predicted that "long-term mortgage rates will stabilize around current levels."

However, outgoing MBA President Robert H. Pease said he anticipated a decline of between one-fourth and one-half per cent.

The effective mortgage rate for new single family houses was estimated last month at 8.49 per cent by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. This figure, which includes initial fees and assumes that the mortgage will be paid off in 10 years, is .03 per cent lower than the August rate.

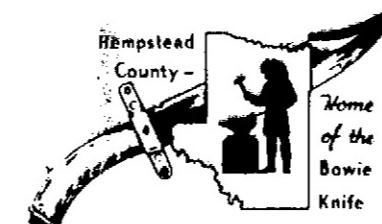

Despite high mortgage costs, housing starts are on the up-swing and the banking experts said they expected the trend to continue.

"People are growing accustomed to the high cost of money, and they're beginning to realize that it won't do any good to sit around waiting for interest rates to fall," Pope said.

Blame Shifted in Drug Bill to Pushers

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a drug bill aimed at drug and narcotics pushers, asking public support for an all-out fight against drug use by young people.

"In order for the laws to mean anything they must have the support of the public," he said.

The drug bill eases somewhat the penalties for narcotics and drug users, stiffens penalties for professional drug traffickers and extends federal controls over previously unregulated drugs.

Nixon, addressing himself to "all of you who may be seeing this signing ceremony or hearing it," said drug use among people is a major national crisis.

The ceremony took place at the downtown Washington headquarters of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

The new law de-emphasizes punishment of drug users in favor of educational programs aimed at preventing a person from taking up the habit. It reduces the crime of possessing marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor.

Mr. Blaylock said that welfare grants issued during the year totaled $548,397. He said that payments for medical care for all citizens, may "save the lives of thousands of young people who might otherwise be hooked on drugs," Nixon said.

"There's no doubt that the county's economy is tremendously helped by all welfare programs," Mr. Blaylock added, "but recent Food Stamp Program improvements have probably brought more new money into the county than anything else." Last year $151,715 worth of groceries were bought from Hempstead County merchants with food coupons and approximately $4,551.45 in sales tax revenue was received by the state. This year the program may triple in size.

Mr. Blaylock said that welfare programs throughout the state are directly serving about a quarter of a million people each month.

Abba Eban is questioning the right of the U.N. General Assembly to discuss the Middle East while the issue is before the Security Council.

He raised the question at a news conference Monday, minutes after Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahamud Riad made the opening speech in the assembly debate. Eban said that in his address to the 127-nation assembly today he would "not take the defensive" but would make new charges.

Riad accused Israel and the United States of collaborating in a policy of deceit and aggression that has blocked peace in the Middle East.

The Israeli foreign minister called Riad's speech "a violent and dishonorable tirade."

Eban said it is well known that Egypt is shoveling in more arms and equipment, "probably even as we are talking now."

He told the newsmen that assemblage debate on the Middle East at this stage might be a violation of the U.N. charter. He added that he would sound out delegation chiefs on what he described as this "dangerous situation."

Eban said as he arrived in New York Sunday that he had not come "in a defensive mood."

The roadblock to negotiations, he charged, was Soviet and Egyptian "violation of the cease-fire standstill."

The chief of Israeli military intelligence, Gen. Aharon Yariv, told a news conference in Tel Aviv that Egypt and the Soviet Union have set up one of the most advanced missile systems in the world in the Suez Canal zone. He estimated that 500 to 600 missiles have been deployed in the zone.

Israel has been boycotting U.N. mediated peace negotiations, charging that Egypt violated the cease-fire by setting up the missile sites.

Eban said the best way to renew the talks would be to restore the situation as it was on Aug. 8, when the 90-day stand-down went into effect in the canal zone. He indicated that Israel would like to see the cease-fire extended.

A group of African delegates has drafted a resolution asking Israel to resume talks under mediator Gunnar V. Jarring within two months. An Israeli official in Jerusalem said the proposal was unacceptable.

The first phase of the museum, which includes a museum, transit and information center and an amphitheater is estimated to cost $6,472,000.

The second part of the first stage, which calls for construction of four exhibit stations, is estimated at $2.5 million; the second phase with four exhibit stations, $3 million; the third phase with seven stations, $5.5 million. Other facilities are estimated at $1,917,000.

A spokesman for the Garland County group said the modern, functional, steel and glass structure is to be a series of buildings located on West Mountain, a short distance from downtown Hot Springs.

Planners hope to get the museum financed through federal funds and a bond issue similar to industrial bonds.

Registration deadline for taking the test on the first of two groups have been in contact with the Smithsonian, who did October 5 to November 1. Directors have expressed interest in being involved with the museum. However, he said that such a project would have.

According to officials, the applicants at more than 1,800 Smithsonian is interested in the colleges, universities, two-year educational possibilities that such a project would have.

Officials at Arkansas Tech and the University of Arkansas have expressed a desire to establish courses in museumology.

Officials said that after the report was received, plans were registration packets and other begun to finance the museum ACT informational materials without the use of state or local from any member of their high funds.

The chief of Israeli military intelligence, Gen. Aharon Yariv, told a news conference in Tel Aviv that Egypt and the Soviet Union have set up one of the most advanced missile systems in the world in the Suez Canal zone. He estimated that 500 to 600 missiles have been deployed in the zone.

Israel has been boycotting U.N. mediated peace negotiations, charging that Egypt violated the cease-fire by setting up the missile sites.

Eban said the best way to renew the talks would be to restore the situation as it was on Aug. 8, when the 90-day stand-down went into effect in the canal zone. He indicated that Israel would like to see the cease-fire extended.

A group of African delegates has drafted a resolution asking Israel to resume talks under mediator Gunnar V. Jarring within two months. An Israeli official in Jerusalem said the proposal was unacceptable.

The first phase of the museum, which includes a museum, transit and information center and an amphitheater is estimated to cost $6,472,000.

The second part of the first stage, which calls for construction of four exhibit stations, is estimated at $2.5 million; the second phase with four exhibit stations, $3 million; the third phase with seven stations, $5.5 million. Other facilities are estimated at $1,917,000.

A spokesman for the Garland County group said the modern, functional, steel and glass structure is to be a series of buildings located on West Mountain, a short distance from downtown Hot Springs.

Planners hope to get the museum financed through federal funds and a bond issue similar to industrial bonds.

Registration deadline for taking the test on the first of two groups have been in contact with the Smithsonian, who did October 5 to November 1. Directors have expressed interest in being involved with the museum. However, he said that such a project would have.

According to officials, the applicants at more than 1,800 Smithsonian is interested in the colleges, universities, two-year educational possibilities that such a project would have.

Officials at Arkansas Tech and the University of Arkansas have expressed a desire to establish courses in museumology.

Officials said that after the report was received, plans were registration packets and other begun to finance the museum ACT informational materials without the use of state or local from any member of their high funds.

He raised the question at a news conference Monday, minutes after Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahamud Riad made the opening speech in the assembly debate.

Eban said as he arrived in New York Sunday that he had not come "in a defensive mood."

The roadblock to negotiations, he charged, was Soviet and Egyptian "violation of the cease-fire standstill."

general election will win even though he may not have a majority vote in his race.

The law, Act 465 of 1969, required a majority vote for election to offices of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and attorney general. It provided that if no candidate receives a majority vote in the general election a runoff would be held two weeks later between the two candidates who received the highest number of votes.

The Supreme Court decided the act in a brief order. The court said an opinion would be issued later.

The law was enacted because the appearance of third-party candidates could result in a candidate's taking office without receiving a majority. This possibility exists this year because of American party candidates for governor and lieutenant governor.

The high court heard oral arguments Monday from the attorneys for the Republican party and the attorney general's office.

Ronald A. May, representing the Republicans, said the Constitution provides that the person who gets the highest number of votes in the general election shall be elected.

He told the court that a runoff election was just a part of the attorney general's office, said the general election and not a separate election.

Thursday while being driven to his office. He died Sunday, less than 24 hours after Congress elected Marxist Sen. Salvador Allende to be the nation's next president. The general was given a hero's funeral Monday.

Chilean officials have said the assassination appeared to be the work of right-wingers seeking to block Allende from taking office Nov. 3. A state of emergency was declared after Schneider was shot, and police said Monday that more than 250 persons had been picked up for questioning. They said 30 remained in jail and that the rest had been released.

A midnight-to-dawn curfew imposed under the state of emergency remained in effect Monday night. The first curfew connected fatality was recorded early in the day when a military patrol shot and killed a bank employee. Police said the man ignored an order to stop his car at a checkpoint.

Two other persons, one an air force lieutenant colonel, were shot and wounded for the same reason during curfew hours Sunday, police said.

Showers Hit
Much of Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Showers and thunderstorms occurred over much of Arkansas Monday night and this morning resulting in flash flood warnings in the southwest and central portions of the state.

The heavy thunderstorm activity moved into the state from the west and southwest Monday night, a result of a deep upper air low pressure trough over the Rockies and Western Plains and a slow moving cold front.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued for some sections of Western and Central Arkansas Monday night and some wind damage was reported in the Pindall area about 15 miles southeast of Harrison. High winds were also reported at Salem in Fulton County.

Some locally heavy rain was expected tonight and Wednesday in the east portion of the state. Precipitation should gradually diminish from the west across the state late today through Wednesday.

Colder air will gradually spread eastward over the western section of the state tonight and over the East Wednesday.

Low tonight 40s northwest to low 60s extreme east. High Wednesday 50s northwest to upper 60s and low 70s extreme east.

ports of all Democratic candidates.

Officials in the state GOP organization refused to let reporters look at the reports of any Republican candidates.

The reports are required this year for the first time under the Arkansas Election Code adopted in 1969. Sunday was the deadline for submitting reports on expenses up to the preferential primary of Aug. 25, but officials in both parties said some reports had not yet been received.

Bumpers reported total expenditures of $97,796.11 for the preferential primary campaign. The total includes not only the amounts spent through his own campaign organization but also sums discovered when Bumpers' staff surveyed news media and others to determine what might have been spent for Bumpers without his knowledge.

The Election Code says the reports shall be filed with the secretaries of the respective parties and shall become part of their records.

Howard Vance of Jonesboro, secretary of the Republican party State Committee, refused, however, to follow Benafield's example when a reporter asked that the GOP records be made available for inspection.

Vance said only a court ruling or an order from the Republican Executive Committee could force him to reveal the reports on Republican spending.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, has refused to follow the example of Bumpers and has persistently turned aside requests that he tell how much is being spent in his campaign for a third term.

Marion B. Burton, director of Rockefeller's campaign this year, rejected a reporter's request Monday to see a copy of the spending report Rockefeller filed with Vance.

"Under the circumstances, it would be a real stupid thing to do, I think," Burton said. "There's no way of knowing how honest other people have been. If they falsify their reports, our spending would look out of line. They would beat us over the head with it."

The policy announced by Benafield is in line with the view expressed earlier by Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, chief architect of the Election Code and chairman of the Democratic party.

"I never thought of them as anything but public record," Purcell said of the expenditure reports.

Bumpers, who finished second in the preferential primary, and Purcell canvassed newspapers and radio stations by mail to determine what might have been spent in their behalf without their knowledge. Their expenditure reports included the amounts the advertising media brought to their attention.

Two Plead Guilty to Contempt

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — A state prosecutor and Kent State University professor whose views on the grand jury investigation of violence and death at Kent were given publicly have pleaded guilty to contempt of court charges.

All persons connected with the grand jury are under court order not to discuss the disturbance.

But over the weekend, Seabury H. Ford of Ravenna, a state prosecutor who aided the grand jury investigation, granted an interview, and Kent geology Prof. Glenn Frank publicly took issue with it.

Ford, 68, was interviewed by Knight Newspapers writer William Schmidt. Ford said he should not have granted the interview but also claimed that he was misquoted.

The story quoted Ford as saying Ohio National Guardsmen "should have shot all" troublemakers at Kent State. It appeared Saturday in the Akron Beacon Journal.

The Beacon Journal quoted Frank as saying he was speaking out "in contempt of the naive and stupid conclusions of the special grand jury, specifically as to the reasons for the May 1-4 disturbances."
